

LEGION'S 12-Hour PARADE

'40-8' CAVORT UNTIL DAWN

Cleveland, Sept. 22 (AP)—Fourteen by twenty thousands of America's World War veterans stepped out today for the greatest public event of the 19th annual American Legion convention—a 12-hour parade through the traffic-filled heart of Cleveland.

For many the march meant almost 24 hours of continuous parading since the "40 or 8" legion honor society's disfiled demonstration did not close until early this morning.

Buzzed up by honky-tonks and marching, the "honors" of the buy car brigade barely had time to spend a few sleepless minutes in tightening drum and pulling trophies before the call came to fall in for the parade in the Legion field at 10 a. m. when the parade started.

Not until 5 p. m. was the first and 10th division of the big parade scheduled to get into the city and parade for the first time. The parade was not scheduled to start until 10 p. m. when the parade was scheduled to start.

Board Up Stores

Board-ups, made easy by the cheering, were in full swing in the city last night to ward off the "40 or 8" parade, which closed hours and hours of the city's business.

The little white members wearing white aprons and from bathing suits to buckskin and from ancient to modern-day fashions, paraded down the city streets, carrying flags and banners.

These additional bands, each of several hundred members, were parading down the city streets, carrying flags and banners.

After hours of the parade, the parade was scheduled to start at 10 p. m. when the parade was scheduled to start.

Littlest Girl Easily Wins Title Of 'Most Lovable of the Five'

SHE "WHOOPS IT UP" AS MUCH AS SISTERS IN PLAY AND "WORK"

Last but not least in this series of "profiles" of the Dionne quintuplets, the unique personality of Marie, tiniest of the quint, is revealed in detail.

By DOROTHY ROE

Callender, Oct. 22, 1936, Marie, the tiniest quintuplet, is perhaps the most endearing of all the five famous Dionnes.

Smaller and more delicate than her four sisters, little Marie deals out her own particular brand of charm, and with the brains of all observers when she reaches out a tiny hand to pat a visitor's cheek.

Marie has a special place in the heart of Dr. Alan Fox, Dr. Fox's son who gave her the name Marie. Marie is the youngest of the quintuplets, being born five months after the other four.

Misses Loved by Many Millions

Chicago, Sept. 22 (INS)—A broken-hearted father stubbornly refused permission for an operation on his first-born son today, preferring his malformed nameless should die a "mercy death" rather than live a life that promised only pain and sorrow and misery.

Within a room in the Danforth-Hospital, Chicago, the young wife pleaded with physicians to perform the delicate operation which their said would give the baby "an even chance to live."

"It would be a sin not to give him a chance to live," the 22-year-old wife, Eva, cried in her anguish. "I can't let him die. Oh, we can't let him die without trying to do something."

"The son, child would probably be a helpless, blind idiot in all his life," the father said. "When he became old enough to understand he would curse us for allowing him to live."

Dr. Louis K. Eastman, hospital chief of staff, declared "there is no chance whatever" for the baby to live unless the operation is performed.

"The infant is literally starving to death," he explained, "since the intestinal malfunction makes it impossible for him to absorb nourishment or excrete waste."

In a room just around the corner from his mother's (Mrs. Telford) said the husband of a half dozen years, who had been married for 10 years, said he would not let his son live.

Life ending away. At birth, last Thursday, he weighed 15 pounds, 13 ounces, was described by nurses as a fine baby, but within a few days he was in mortal danger. His cries almost continually in the night, his mother said.

These miseries are in constant attack on the baby, every day, from him from an end-wormer, hoping they would, but the child is so weak that he cannot even move.

FATHER DECREES BABY'S 'MERCY DEATH'

Lexington Woman Fights for Farm, Gas Station

MRS. SARAH CUTLER

Lady her former ancestor of 75 who fought and felt battling the redskins. Mrs. Sarah Cutler, 38-year-old, is fighting for her farm and gas station today.

She wants the right to operate a gasoline filling station on the farm she says has been in the Cutler family since the Revolution, and Lexington, Vermont, have refused her plea.

"I haven't begun to fight yet," Mrs. Cutler declared. "I want to have that filling station, or I know why I'm far from here."

The station was reported to have been in the Cutler family for 200 years. It was a station used by the army, and was built by the Cutler family.

"I live in the same house that has been in the Cutler family for 200 years. I have a gasoline pump on my farm and nearly every night someone comes out of the station to get gasoline."

"I can't sell it to them under the law. I want to give it to them. And I do. Now I want to run a regular station and I want a better reason than 'barring the station' before I'll give it up."

Mrs. Cutler, who lives in Lexington, Vermont, who built the station on the common there and fell on April 10, 1936.

Acting on Mrs. Cutler's petition was taken into consideration by the Vermont legislature.

SOCIETY WOMAN FINED

Julia Tuck French Incognito

It was a nice trick and it worked. At least, neither the court nor the reporters knew until it was all over that the Julia Williams who paid $10 at Dedham court today for speeding on August 25 was the same Julia Tuck French Williams who is related to the Astors, the Vanderbilts and English nobility.

The scene opened with the clerk calling the name of Julia Williams. She appeared in the courtroom wearing a dark dress and a hat.

SELLS Insurance to CHINESE WOMAN BUILDS BIG BUSINESS

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
The famous Kipling couple about the East and West never joined as a team evidently has no reflection on the matter of life insurance.

A young Chinese woman life insurance underwriter—the only one of her race present at the 47th annual convention of the National Association—today dispelled the thought that Orientals are not as insurance-minded as their Western Hemisphere counterparts.

The daughter of a Chinese insurance agent and the wife of another Chinese underwriter, Miss Ching of Chicago is one of the few Chinese women present at the convention. She is in America, but the bulk of her writing is for Chinese men.

The company she represents, a Canadian firm, was established in China long before it reached American shores.

American-Born

Quiet and unassuming, she admitted it to be emphatically known, however, that she is not a native-born American.

"It is no much easier to sell Chinese men," she said smilingly. "They are heads of households, appreciate and realize the value of life insurance and are eager for it. All China is eager for it."

"Chinese, like Americans, want life for protection and safety. Naturally, they are interested in the selling of life insurance because my family and even my husband have been connected with it for years."

"When it comes to an intelligent understanding of the future needs of advanced life insurance, I might say, are just as clever as Americans."

Women Buyers

Behind her cloak of ingenuousness, Miss Ching is a high-pressure saleswoman. She says, however, that no such American high-pressure salesmanship is needed in selling her people, because they understand.

A great many companies will not insure Chinese because it is a known fact. They do not know the risks, as a rule.

But Miss Ching is a woman who likes risk as she pulled to her own company, the Sun Life of Canada, and the business they do amounts her own people and have done over a period of years.

"In China, the Chinese are great purchasers of life insurance—yes, even among women. When it comes to a question of life and death, the East and West meet on common ground as far as life insurance is concerned. They may not meet on other avenues of humanity, but the chances of life insurance there is no East, there is no West."

Pope Sadly Talks Of "Successor"

Cardinal Gandini, Italy, Sept. 22 (AP)—Pope Pius, whose papal illness recently had caused concern, today referred indirectly to the possibility of his death in the next distant future.

Addressing members of the congress for the Italian bishops in the papal summer villa here, the pontiff, who is 75, said:

"Your work fulfils the spiritual desire of my predecessor, myself, and my successor, who by now ought to be near."

Black Legion Trial Plea Turned Down

Detroit, Sept. 22 (AP)—Circuit Judge Joseph A. Morrison today denied defense motion to discontinue the trial of 12 alleged Black Legion members on trial for kidnapping and murdering Charles A. Tamm.

"There is sufficient evidence for this case to go to the jury on a question of fact. The defense motion is denied," the court ruled.

'I Wasn't Always Sweet' School Girl Bride Admits a Temper

Mrs. Edith J. Longo

Dark eyes snapping, 18-year-old Mrs. Edith J. Longo, tall, slim and pretty brunette, admitted today on the witness stand in Middlesex Probate Court that she has a temper and might have started some of her marital squabbles.

The attractive West Medford girl-wife, seeking a divorce from Paul J. Longo of Winchester, with whom she eloped a year and a half ago, was under cross-examination by the counsel, Attorney Joseph Barrille.

"I was brought out in cross-examination that her mother had been opposed to her marrying, and that for months after the marriage she and her mother had not spoken."

"I did not speak to her until I called her last December," Mrs. Longo testified.

"With fire in her eyes and with her speech short-chopped, she denied that her young husband had 'given her everything'."

"He didn't give me a thing," she declared.

"He gave you a nice home in Winchester? A—It wasn't my home! I was the housekeeper there, that's all."

"Q—Well, you lived there, didn't you?" he asked her.

"First denying that her husband had done all of the housework, she admitted that sometimes he would do the floors and had provided soup for her."

"Q—You have been just a sweet, obedient wife then? A—No, I haven't been sweet."

"Q—You have a temper, too, haven't you? A—Yes, I have a temper."

"Then she admitted she might have started some of the arguments, but she denied ever having struck her husband."

"She also admitted having worn, for two recent weeks, the fraternity pin of a youth she met the summer in Maine, but she denied that the wearing of the pin had caused any quarrels."

"The case is still being heard."

Worcester Vote Trickery Charged

Worcester, Sept. 22 (AP)—A complaint that the vote was being imported from Providence to vote was made to Police Chief Thomas F. Foley today.

Worcester voters went to the polls to cast their ballots in a special primary to choose candidates for mayor.

The complaint was made by State Senator John B. Sullivan, one of the three candidates for the Democratic nomination.

Sullivan said that he had been told by a number of people that they had been paid to vote for him.

Private Exhibit of Drawings
Attracts Notables

By BETTY ALDEN

THOSE WHO WENT to the Vase Galleries in Copley Square yesterday afternoon exhibited in an exhibit of drawings by Priscilla Marshall Tate . . . but were quite surprised and pleased to discover that the private viewing was very much like an all-party political caucus . . .

precisive gleam in her eyes as she received one congratulation after another . . . Caroline Oveson was present, both in person and in a very arresting likeness of her pugnant profile which hung against the temple velvet hangings of the studio walls . . . She strolled about with her father, Raymond Oveson, and then spent a half hour or so pouring tea, while Mr. Oveson and Mimi Boos indulged in a little friendly contest to see who could remember the most French idioms . . . This occurred during a lull in the coffee, the pouring of which was Mimi's job for a short while . . .

Miss Oveson was very smartly attired in a black cape suit with a chrysanthemum blouse, high of neck and repeating the color of the small ornaments on her little black toque . . . The cape was hip length and bordered with black fox . . .

Dorothea Whittier Attends

MISS BOOS was in a navy blue outfit and found a number of acquaintances to chat with during the afternoon . . . She and Barbara Bradford discussed the various likenesses of their friends among Miss Tate's subjects . . . and then joined Dorothea Whittier, who had dropped in for a cup of tea with Mrs. Huntington Saville and Miss Corneille Whittier . . .

Mary Titus, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Titus, was equally pretty in her portrait and in person as she stood to allow a few friends to compare her own expression with that of her drawing . . . She wore a powder blue silk suit to bring out the blue of her eyes and topped off the outfit with a brown suede hat with bright orange quills . . .

Mrs. John H. Cunningham was one of the first to serve as pourer . . . a distinguished figure in navy blue with a silver fox scarf and a navy velvet turban atop her crowning glory . . . her iron gray hair in just that in every sense of the word . . . Mrs. Gug Cunningham, aunt of Priscilla Marshall Tate, and George Foster, were the two who kept an eye on the tea table to be sure sandwich plates and tea pots were replenished when necessary . . .

Leslie De C. Hinds and Henry Parkman were both interested, and even a little bit apprehensive as strangers stood before their portraits and regarded them with a speculative eye . . . The new Mrs. Parkman was there to compare the flesh and blood countenance of her husband with Miss Tate's crayon impression . . .

Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall Admires Drawings

SEEKING DIVERSION from the ever present political battle, Mrs. Leverett Saltonstall, wife of the Republican candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, dropped in for a cup of tea and another glance at Miss Tate's drawing of Mr. Saltonstall . . .

Mrs. Charles Gaston Smith was another flesh and blood guest, and among the well-knowns whose portraits hung upon the walls were Betty Sargent's and Betty Albers, two of the season's debutantes, the remarkable drawing of Allan Winter Rowe, which was loaned by Dr. Lyman Hapgood; Christian A. Herter, Mrs. S. Huntington Wolcott, Jr., and her sister-in-law, Edith Wolcott Devereux, one which catches the animation in Mary Porter Wardwell's expression, and an excellent one of Louis Tanner Greene, a deb of last winter . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Herrick, Sr., are planning to give a dance for their debutante granddaughter, Katherine Metcalf of Providence, before she even makes her debut in her own home city . . .

The Herricks' party will be on the evening of November 14 at the Milton Club . . . and on New Year's Eve the debutante will make her bow in Providence society at a ball given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Houghton P. Metcalf, at the Agawam Hunt Club . . .

Chatty Notes of Society

MRS. WILLIAM WALTER CARLTH, Jr., of Dallas, Texas, the former Miss Mabel Peters of West Newton, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Edwin Peters, at their West Newton home. Mrs. Carlth is the bride of Mr. Carlth at the Second Church in West Newton, on the day after New Year's, Jan. 2, 1935 . . .

MR. AND MRS. ROGER W. CUTLER are entertaining Mrs.

Conants to Sail On Queen Mary

President and Mrs. James Bryant Conant of Harvard are to sail tomorrow aboard the Queen Mary for an "indulgent" vacation trip in Europe . . .

DEB Goes Abroad for Year

(Picture from International News)

THE CUSTOMARILY active debutante year will be unusually interesting for Dorothy Ober, with the formalities of her debut behind her, she will leave next Tuesday for a year of study at Geneva College for Women. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merion E. Ober.

Bridge Imagination In Lead

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Some of the fiercest arguments at the Bridge table rage about the age-old question of returning partner's lead. As with most of these Bridge chestnuts, there is neither need nor ground for discussion.

It is impossible to formulate a rule, since, in every other situation, it is the exigency of each individual hand that must determine the proper play.

In today's hand, East should not have had the slightest doubt about what to do.

West properly led the King of hearts from his four-card suit rather than from his longer but not nearly so good spade suit. Declarer laid off for two rounds and was forced to take the Ace on the third round.

He then laid down the Ace and King of clubs, and when West showed not, went after the diamond suit. Not knowing how many hearts West had started with, declarer attempted to leap him off the lead by leading the Jack of diamonds with the intention of passing it. But West covered and dummy's Ace was played, after which the King and a low diamond followed. East, now on lead with the ten-spot, proceeded to make a horrible play.

South dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

▲ T 13		▲ 2 3		▲ K 4 5		▲ J 10 9 8
▲ K 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2		▲ 2 3		▲ K 4 5		▲ J 10 9 8
▲ K 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2		▲ 2 3		▲ K 4 5		▲ J 10 9 8
▲ K 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2		▲ 2 3		▲ K 4 5		▲ J 10 9 8

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	4 NT	Pass

The simplest sort of arithmetic should have told him that West had only one more heart, and in addition to the three trumps already home could not defeat the contract. But East had been schooled to return his partner's lead at any cost, and his schooling proved his downfall.

West, thrown on lead with the fourth heart, was forced to lead away from his made King up to declarer's tenace for the ninth trick. Obviously, had East made the proper return of a spade for fear matter, had he even returned a club, the contract inevitably would have been defeated.

Tea Dance To Honor Debs

MR. AND MRS. J. HORTON

LIANS of Park Avenue are flying over from New York Friday to join the group of prominent people who will come from out of town to attend the tea dance, at which Emily Nelson and Elizabeth Robb will be presented to society.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Nelson of Chestnut Hill and Mrs. E. Wiley Robb are giving the party at the Nelson home on Dunster road. Ruby Newman's orchestra will play for dancing.

Mrs. Henry A. Wiley, wife of Admiral Wiley, retired, of Washington, D. C. and Murray Bay, Canada, will come on for the party.

Others who plan to attend are Harold E. Herrick of Long Island and New York; Colonel Walter Pratt, and Mrs. J. Beresford W. Waller, the former Miss Agnes Means of Boston, wife of Commander Waller, of the United States Navy, at Washington; Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., John Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Kinnel, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Alton of Worcester.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Royal Little, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kilvert, and the Misses Kilvert, all of Providence, R. I.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunt, Welling of East Greenwich, R. I., and New York city; Professor and Mrs. French of New Haven, Robert Taft and William Howard Taft, 34, of Yale University.

Donnelly Dover Estate Scene of Tea

By DOROTHY W. CRANNELL

AT three o'clock next Sunday afternoon Mrs. Edward C. Donnelly, of Boston and Dover, will give a tea at her estate, Ard Righ, Dover, in honor of Professor Maurice Leahy, eminent Irish poet.

Professor Leahy will entertain guests with a lecture on "The Hedge School."

"The Hedge School" very appropriately named, were constructed in Ireland by masters who had resented the penal laws of the English Parliament, which prohibited the teaching of children by any person of Catholic adherence.

These masters were forced to live their lives as fugitive outlaws, nor could they with safety be found within the pale of English jurisdiction.

Not to be defeated in their purpose, the masters carried on their work triumphantly in secret defiance, by conducting classes in the woods and fields, undisturbed by the police, thus accomplishing their object. Accordingly, their schools came to be called "The Hedge School."

Professor Leahy is a very interesting lecturer and is very well known in Boston literary circles. Mrs. Joseph Collins, president of the Catholic Foresters, is chairman assisted by Miss Lillian Hartigan, Miss Mary Antonia Meade, Mrs. James R. Casey and Mrs. Joseph Hartley. Tickets may be procured from Miss Hartigan.

Lieut. Ewing To Wed in June

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS A.

McKITTICK of Tonkers, N. Y., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Janet Barr McKittick, to Lieutenant John Lawrence Ewing, U. S. N., son of Mrs. John Lawrence Ewing of Boston and the late Mr. Ewing.

Miss McKittick graduated from the Hales School in Yonkers, the Finch School and the Rudolph of Acting in New York and attended Wellesley College. She is the sister of Dr. Robert Barr McKittick of New York and a granddaughter of the late Andrew Brown Barr of Yonkers. She is a niece of Captain Harold V. McKittick of the United States navy and Mrs. McKittick, President and Samuel Brewster.

Lieutenant Ewing graduated from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis in 1927 and is now completing a post-graduate course in aeronautical engineering at the University of Michigan.

The wedding will take place next June.

Enter her last year. She is a member of the reception committee which will greet the members of the freshman class. Miss McKittick is a talented pianist and composed much of the music in the annual college play which was presented last winter by the college. Her radio broadcasting has done much to gain for her professional recognition. At Watrous, Miss McKittick will assume the responsibility of song leader this year.

EXCLUSIVE: THE MOST IMPORTANT conference in current Massachusetts politics was behind locked doors of a private dining room in the Hotel Lafayette. The principals were Governor Curley and Mayor Robert E. Greenwood of Fitchburg. No one else was present, and utmost secrecy cloistered the meeting. The bitterness of the primary campaign seems to have dissolved under the urgency of a united Democratic front in the November election. This column is told that Mayor Greenwood will withdraw from the fight. The matter of his campaign expenditures is the big cloud on the horizon.

Some of the Smart Money Is Saying:

Joe Louis to win by a left uppercut in the fourth round at Philadelphia tonight. The Louis Left Uppercut will then get a mighty build-up—winning the colored youth the reputation of being best two-handed puncher in the records. . . Hubbell pitches the first game, 9-5 with the Giants favored. If the Giants win the first game, even money on the series. If Hubbell starts, and the Yanks win—name your own price for the Giants, and 2-1 the series won't go more than five games.

Swing Around the Town:

Three bands in a week will work at the Ritz Roof before the close of the new dance season. Saturday midnight, Benny Goodman does Thursday. . . Leroy Anderson will play Friday. Friday will be called "Harvard Night" . . . Anderson is the leader of the Harvard band, who played at the Tercentenary. . . Baby Newman in person, his first appearance in two years here, will close the Roof Saturday night. . . Dave Lithander rode the hurricane from Bermuda. Passengers frightened out of their wits were given byes. . . The Three Variety Boys come next to the Mayfair. . . The Ritz Brothers, who played there last season for $500, are expected to return. . . Sheila Barrett's salary is the highest for a single tune in a Boston night club since Helen Morgan. . . Baby Newman, four, rates this, her first press notice, because she presided at a party of two at her North Weymouth home with the grace of a Hollywood hostess turning on the charm. Baby didn't have to turn it on. . . A wife from New York says Pat Rooney will be associated with Baby Tom and Eddie Lewis in the New York Den. It can't be verified. But for merging of the tribes in a partnership this would be unique. . . Frank and Mildred Sawyer were at the Coconut Grove last night with Designer Reuben and Blanny Bodenhamer. . . In the column devoted to local boys making good, one of the Barnstable papers credited Bodenhamer with decorating the Roger Wolfe Kahn Club (which isn't) in Boston, and the Silver Dollar Bar. . . Fame my friend.

And the Lady Seldom Lies:

Nene Damour, chanteuse in the Coconut Grove's new Melody Lounge, swears she passed through the drouth county recently and saw three fures chasing a dog. Theatricals: "First Lady" will play three weeks at the Shubert. . . "Call It a Day," the Theater Guild and Lee Ephraim play, will open October 19, with Gloria Grahame. . . "The Merry Widow" starring Katherine Cornell tried to engage John Gielgud in London 10 years ago to succeed Leslie Howard as Napier in "The Green Hat". . . Now Gielgud and Howard are getting ready to play their rival "Hamlets" in New York. . . "Red, Hot and Blue" will play 10 days only at the Colonial. The lower floor has been sold out for the first night to a charitable organization, so don't ask. The Duranto-Merman-Hove vehicle will open at the Algonquin Theater, New York, Wednesday, October 21. . . James R. Waters and Betty Allen have been added to the cast. Waters was Jake, husband of Molly, in "The Rise of the Goldbergs".

Hollywood—for a Spell:

All these silent stories, featuring mixed metaphors, malapropisms and mispronunciations, have been bang on Sam Goldwyn, the famous film producer, since the day he is supposed to have remarked (in dialect): "In two words, I'll tell you. Impossible." Now along comes a brochure from Goldwyn's office, an imposing creation in blue and silver, with "elegant language." It advertises "Dodsworth" and exclaims: "A Nobel Prize Winner (Sindler Lewis), A Pulitzer Prize Winner (Sidney Howard), and a great producer (Samuel Goldwyn)." "Dodsworth," the best picture of "great" and "producer" are in lower case. On the back page there is an engraving of the Nobel prize and a cut of a plaque showing Sindler Lewis kneeling to receive the great award.

The business positively reeks of class. BUT—in the line telling about nearly 200,000 copies of the book being sold, they spelled it "phenomenal."

We Have With Us:

The last word today, as it has been for seasons, Guy Lombardo's great orchestra thrilled a gay throng at Leucog's last night. Lombardo's visit is limited to one week. The pay check here is reported as $4750.

Success Story:

This is how "Bing" Conley, the one-time biffer from Lewiston, Me., found a permanent place in the Hollywood sun. "Bing," who fought five champions, including Harry Greb, is a townswan of Director John Ford, who as John Feeney lived his early life Down East. Ford's loyalty prompted him to give "Bing" a job as an extra in a picture. There was a fight scene. "Now, I want some action here," Ford popped through his loud-speaker. "Bing" went into action. Wham! Down went an actor. The actor came up rubbing his chin, and demanding: "Who hit me?" Primed for more action, "Bing" grimly said: "I did!" "Bing" is working steadily now. At 50 pay (a week). The sucker for his punch was Gregory Ratoff, the Russian with the dialect. "Bing" is his stand-in and body-guard.

Bright Lights on the New Programs

Beverly Roberts has a featured role in "China Clipper," which comes to the Paramount and Fenway on Thursday.

Betty Grable adds beauty and love to "Don't Turn 'Em Loose," coming to the Keith Boston on Thursday.

New Film At Park

Featured by near-parity attendance all day. "What Price Innocence," a film written and directed by Willard Mack, opened yesterday at the Park Theater as "newcomer" to the record-breaking "Edgar". The story is the old one of the results of reckless love, and leads to the inevitable in murder. It plays the role of the girl who is bewitched by the turn of fate when she suffers the disillusionment of a first erroneous love. Ben Alexander is cast as the "bad," and Bryant Washburn and Merna Kennedy play the part of the girl who tried to help the girl. Beverly Roberts has a bit in the film.

Frank McHugh Now Warners' Ace Comic

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor
Los Angeles, Sept. 22.—The last few days Norma Shearer has been at the William Thalberg's in seclusion and no one has talked to her of her plans, but everyone hopes that Norma will not consider retiring from the screen.

She is young, talented and beautiful and Irving was so ambitious for her, that she was ready to go on in their picture, is intriguing them—even H. M. Fox, who offstage talks faster than Chico and Groucho put together.

No sorry to disappoint all those Tulsa, Oklahoma, fans who were asking not to have little Clarence Wyatt, on our "Hollywood Head" broadcast of "Valiant Is the Word for Parrie".

Impossible to grant that request, but I can certainly understand Oklahoma's pride in this little six-year-old girl who had everyone at the preview night laughing.

Wes Ruggles' discovery of Clarence at the prewarier Magpie School, and while Paramount hasn't yet signed her, we can't believe it, it's her escape.

Charles in Hollywood. Ida Lupino will just have to remain for her the essence of true love never did so smoothly in trying to find plain to herself why her boy friend was so good.

It seems Louis didn't like the publicity one little bit and the yearn all but broke up the friendship. But everything is all right between them again, after all, he explained she had been misinformed.

A line or two? A clipping from a Parisian paper says the crowdman at a hotel there were not Rods or Comedians but Madras Dietrich fans waiting for a glimpse of their star.

Sally O'Neil will be leaving us soon for a trip to Europe. She's all signed for the title role in "The Sign of the Cross".

NIGHT FOOTBALL A HIT

BABE PUT BEE ON BRAVES

UNKINDLY (L. L. BABE RUTH'S RADIO punch in his recent etherical) with Kate Smith ran thus: "Have you ever appeared in a comedy role before?" "Babe"—"O, yes, I played part of a season with the Boston Braves." I still think, tops for fact, was the remark which Jack Sharkey hurled over the National hook-up after being gulped and blistered by Joe Louis. "Say something Jack," invited the radio announcer as he wheeled past. Jack leaves his heated sentence down to the Mike and snarled: "Who wants to be a beaten fighter?"

N. Y. Race Heads Lift Phillips Ban

New York, Sept. 22 (AP)—

New York State Racing Commission has today announced that it will lift the ban on

Phillips racing horses

in the State of New York.

The ban was imposed in 1934 after Phillips was found guilty of tampering with the results of a race at Saratoga.

Phillips, who is now living in England, had been racing horses in the United States since

1931.

Winners to Appear on Hub Stage

There are only two more days in which you may get your auditions today and tomorrow, between the hours of 11 a. m. and 2 p. m., or if you prefer, between 8 p. m. and 11 p. m.

The last auditions will be held

Don't forget, those selected from these auditions will appear on the stage of the Metropolitan theater on the same program with the romantic star, John Boles, starting next Friday.

Francis and George Brent, will be the feature picture attraction for this week.

Where's Your $10,000 Bill?

Washington, Sept. 22 (AP)—If you probably isn't noticeable to most people, but $10,000 bills are becoming more numerous and $5000 bills are scarcer.

On August 31, there were 1937 $10,000 bills in circulation—or about one to every 66,600 persons.

There were 1272 $5000 notes in circulation on August 31, a drop of 43 in a month.
